

County receives public, individual, SBA assistance

BY TRACI BONNEY

Local disaster relief available has exceeded county officials' expectations.

When the county government began its documentation for disaster relief because of heavy rains and flooding, officials said they expected the county to receive public assistance and possibly some help for business owners from the Small Business Association.

Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin said the county will receive the expected public assistance, the hoped-for SBA aid, and individual assistance as well.

Those homeowners who want to apply for individual assistance should call the toll-free number 1-800-626-7748 for information, Boudin said.

Aid for farmers has not yet been granted, but the county continues to wait for word in that area, he added.

The SBA is opening a temporary Outreach Center at the Hancock County Civil Defense office, 129 Court Street, today, Friday, Monday and Tuesday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Small business owners who have suffered a loss because of the recent damaging rains may pick up an SBA disaster loan application at the Outreach Center, but must present a registration number when they visit the center. They may obtain that number by registering for assistance through the Federal Emergency Management Agency's toll-free hotline,

Bay-Waveland school budget hearing draws zero attendance

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Bay-Waveland School Board members were not surprised to find an empty board room during their Tuesday night public hearing for the 1991-92 budget.

"They heard we were not raising taxes," board member Gary Yarborough commented in explanation for the lack of attendance.

The board members listened as business manager Garland Cuevas said the $7.5 million budget was basically the same as last year's.

Though the new budget is approximately $500,000 less than the 1990-91 budget, change in millage is not anticipated.

The 1990-91 budget allowed $738,452 for the construction of an auditorium and a fine arts building at the high school, whereas this year, zero dollars are allotted for the same.

The pay scale for school employees, certified and non-certified, is planned to remain the same.

As last year, the board plans to purchase two new school buses at an estimated cost of $70,000, which is a $15,000 increase.

The proposed budget includes $4.8 million for instruction, $914,720 for non-instructional, $878,653 for administration, $677,483 for operation and maintenance and $259,409 for transportation.

Revenues collected are estimated at $3.8 million from the state, $2 million locally, $916,476 federally and $192,330 from other sources.

The district has no definite idea of what to expect in state cuts, said Cuevas, though he reported to have heard $113,000 as a rumored amount.

Cuevas said the 1991-92 budget ends with a $65,000 balance in local revenue which may be used to balance any cuts in the upcoming year.

No public interest aroused by county school budget plan

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County School Board President Frank Miller turned to a dozen empty seats Monday evening and asked for public input following review of the $11.5 million 1991-92 district budget.

The new budget is a decrease from the current 1990-91 amended budget of $14.8 million and reflects no increase in ad valorem taxes for the new year.

The teacher pay scale will remain the same as last year while non-certified personnel will receive a two to 15 percent increase, determined by job position and years of experience.

Within the new budget, the district plans to spend $5.1 million on instructional costs, $1.1 million for administrative functions, $971,125 for operation and maintenance, $518,018 for transportation, $831,020 for food related costs and $395,404 for new facility acquisitions and constructions.

From that money allocated for acquisitions and constructions, $63,093 will be used to pay for the remaining balance on the construction of Hancock Junior/Senior High School.

Projects approved and begun from that fund include $162,000 for renovations at Hancock North Central Elementary School and $77,756 for the paving of the parking lot at Gulfview Elementary School, along with the extension and paving of the bus turnaround at the high school.

Projects planned for the upcoming year, all earmarked for the high school, are:

- a concession stand for the football stadium;
- landscaping and installation of a sprinkler system;
- air conditioning of the locker rooms;
- construction of baseball dugouts;
- the transfer of the (metal) athletic field house from Hancock North Central;
- shelving for the library and the band hall and;
- illumination of the school name sign.

An estimated cost for the high school projects is $80,000.

The budget shows expenditures for the district at $182,354 in excess of revenues prior to the addition of a $291,568 carry over from this year's budget, leaving the district with a surplus balance of $109,213.

Fire guts empty frame house

BY TRACI BONNEY

Arson is suspected as the cause of an early morning fire that gutted a house at 621 Citizen Street Tuesday, according to Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana.

The house, owned by Arthur M. and Lena Mae Lewis, was unoccupied and uninsured at the time of the fire. No electricity or gas service was connected, Lizana said.

Lena Mae Lewis said the house wasn't liveable and was supposed to be torn down, but recent wet weather had prevented the work from being done.

As she talked to Williams and another neighbor after inspecting the charred remains of the blue frame house, she quipped, "I guess somebody just got tired of looking at it."

Lizana said the fire department received a call at 12:42 a.m. from U.S. Williams, a resident at 620 Citizen. Engines 1 and 2, seven firefighters, two volunteers, Lizana and Lt. Gary Maurice responded.

Chris Boudreaux, who lives in the house behind the one that burned, reported that he saw a small fire in the house earlier and put it out.

Lizana said Maurice is in charge of the fire investigation.

Shortfall loan approved by county school board

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County School Board members approved a request by Superintendent Terrell Randolph to apply for a shortfall loan in the amount of $150,000 Monday.

Randolph explained that the loan was needed to meet expenditures in the 1990-91 district budget.

He said the amount of taxes collected this year by the county was less than anticipated, causing the school district to receive less money.

The shortfall loan is to be repaid in three years at $60,000 a year.

Randolph said the district would be paying off a shortfall levy from 1987 by the end of this year. The $150,000 shortfall loan would replace the 1987 loan thereby "one balancing out the other."

He explained that though the building fund contains a carry over large enough to cover the shortfall from this year, that money is being kept in order to meet the $137,000 state funding deficit the district anticipates this year.

Bay St. Louis council discusses gaming/zoning study contract

BY TRACI BONNEY

A small audience and lack of participants in the public forum were the earmarks of a long but quiet Bay St. Louis city council meeting Tuesday.

About a dozen people attended the meeting, during which city consultant/liaison Jules Lagarde discussed the proposed contract between the city and gaming/zoning study consultants Paul Buckhurst and Hawkins Stearn.

Lagarde told the council that the contract called for a fee of $82,000 for the study ($14,000 lower than Buckhurst's highest estimate of $96,000); projected expenses of up to $11,850, based on 11 trips by Buckhurst and Stearn to Bay St. Louis; and a possible $7,500 fee if the city agrees to commission the consultants for a study of the proposed Cedar Point area annexation.

Council members asked several questions about expenses and Lagarde's intentions to reduce them as much as possible. Lagarde reassured the council that he planned to do so.

"I intend to value engineer the expenses anywhere and everywhere I can," he stated.

Lagarde also answered concerns about council security that the consultants would abide by their part of the contract and that the city would be able to break the contract if necessary.

The council agreed to set a meeting today to review the contract in its final form and ratify it.

City attorney John Scaffide presented the council with a proposed amendment to the city's special subdivision ordinance. The amendment would increase the application fee from a flat $50 to $50 plus $10 for each parcel being created by the special subdivision.

The amendment also would require the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission to hold a public hearing before making a recommendation to the council about a special subdivision, and would mandate notification to property owners within a 300-foot radius of the land being considered for special subdivision.

The council accepted Scaffide's recommendation for the amendment.

Mayor Edward Favre discussed with the council a possible solution to the sidewalk cave-in in front of City Hall. A section of the sidewalk was undermined by heavy rains and

ST. ANN CHURCH NEWS

A thought for meditation until Father Kelly arrives:

Lonesome is that weary heart that beats in life, alone,
And cries for love to light its way and show the journey home;

But it is sad, that this should be—for any heart to bear—
For Jesus waits, with gifts of love, to answer every prayer.

He knows the sadness in a heart that weeps for want of love

And cries for light to show the way from earth to life above.
But He cannot reach out with love—to comfort one's despair—

Unless the heart, that cries for love, comes unto Him in prayer.

KILLING TIME

By Traci Bonney

Before starting on my column for this week, I was looking through my "Foul-ups, Bleeps and Blunders" file. It's a file folder that I keep for my amusement when I'm in need of a good laugh.

In that file are copies of stories typed in quarter-inch-high print, cutlines (photo captions) that are both too large and written entirely in bold print, stories set completely in headline type, and an oversized copy of my first Killing Time column, written for the March 22, 1990, edition of the paper.

Reading that column made me wince, not because of its size but because of its contents. I want to thank my faithful readers who have slogged through the overly religious early columns and stayed with me until now. I'm excited about my faith, sure; but some of my early stuff was too much even for me as I re-read it.

Just for a refresher course, though, my first column was about amusing signs and posters. Remember the half a fire-works stand sign that read "World/Buy one, get one free"? And one local sign I mentioned, "Rabbits and equipment for sale" (with its post stencilled with the word "worms"), is still at the same location on Main Street. I still haven't figured out whether or not the equipment has anything to do with the rabbits (or the worms, for that matter).

And who can forget the Columbus car wash sign with the broken capital A that resulted in the statement "We hand wish?"

One I didn't mention before, but will now, is the sign in front of First Baptist Church on Main Street. "Thou shalt not park." I've looked in Exodus 20, but I can't find that commandment. I've said before that I'm a bit of a packrat. I'm improving (some) in that area, but I still have a sentimental tendency to keep things that have fond memories attached.

Another tendency of mine is to rummage through my old stuff every once in a while and reminisce.

Why do we do that? Oh, I know some people don't; they're so firmly rooted in the present they rarely consider the past. But most people I know do think about their pasts. I certainly do.

I'm not saying I get any longing for a return to those times, although I do have such twinges occasionally. But when I think about my past, I usually discover some truth about my childhood, or life in general.

After all, the real difference between nostalgia and reflection is what you do with what you remember and the accompanying feelings.

If I were nostalgic about this column, for instance, I would long to return to the day when I didn't wander around the office trying to come up with ideas because I had a dozen or more on tap.

But since I'm being reflective, I am thankful my writing has improved and my column flows more smoothly.

You know, it's sort of like looking at an old picture of yourself. Your first thought generally is: "Did I really look like that? I can't believe that haircut! And look at those clothes! Ugh!" Well, those are similar to my thoughts on "Read any good signs lately?", my first Killing Time. "Did I really write that? Geeze, it's so long! And my goodness, did I really get that preachy?" (Shudder; wince)

Please, don't write or call and tell me I did get that preachy; I know I did.

Well, what do you want to do, crucify me?

Several local residents involved in Washington Ave./Hwy. 90 wreck

BY TRACI BONNEY

Three people were taken to Hancock Medical Center after a multi-car accident at the intersection of Washington Ave. and Hwy. 90 last week, according to Bay St. Louis Police Officer Gus Aime.

Aime said the accident, which occurred on the morning of June 10, involved a four-car chain reaction, a one-car collision with a power pole, and a tire blowout on a sixth vehicle.

According to the police report, Stuart Brehm, 72, of Hancock County, was driving north on Washington Avenue when he crossed part of Hwy. 90, but stopped between lanes. Angele M. McCaleb, 33, of Bay St. Louis, was driving east on Hwy. 90 when her vehicle hit the left rear of Brehm's car.

Brehm's car then struck one driven by Patrick Fontenot, 30, of Bay St. Louis, which struck a car driven by Linda A. Driscoll, 33, also of Bay St. Louis.

The car driven by Edward P. Krass, 38, of Bay St. Louis, was westbound on Hwy. 90 when the accident occurred. To avoid a collision with another car, Krass' car left the road, but hit a utility pole.

Aime said another car's tire blew out when the driver swerved to avoid the four-car wreck.

He said Fontenot, Krass and his wife, Kathleen, were transported by Mobile Medic to Hancock Medical Center.

In addition to Mobile Medic, the Bay St. Louis Police and a city fire rescue squad responded to the incident.

Aime said no charges have been filed as yet, but investigation of the incident is continuing.

Chain reaction wreck injures three on I-10

BY TRACI BONNEY

A Sunday afternoon accident on Interstate 10 sent three Pascagoula people to Hancock Medical Center and caused numerous minor injuries, according to Mississippi Highway Patrol Trooper Roy Fullerton.

Fullerton said the accident, a nine-car pileup, occurred around 4:45 p.m. in the west-bound lane of the interstate near the west end of the Jordan River bridge.

He explained that the cars started colliding when a driver slammed on her brakes to avoid hitting a car that had apparently cut in front of her during a heavy rain.

"Then it was a chain reaction, vehicles trying to avoid other vehicles," Fullerton said.

Twenty-seven people were involved in the accident. Most were treated at the scene, while three people — Billie Grogan, 46; Jason Grogan, 12; and Damie Grogan, 14 — were transported to Hancock Medical Center.

Jason was treated for a broken hand and Damie for a dislocated shoulder, then the children were released, according to a hospital official.

Billie Grogan was in stable condition with a ruptured spleen and possible broken ribs. He was held in ICU Sunday night for observation, then moved out into a room, where he was reported in stable condition Tuesday.

Ruff: Dupont warning system operators need more training

BY TRACI BONNEY

No injuries or evacuations resulted from a small release of titanium tetrachloride at DuPont Monday morning, but plant officials did realize a need for continued training on the operation of the plant's early warning system.

Garry Ruff, senior supervisor of safety, health and environment, said a release of about 200-250 pounds of titanium tetrachloride (TiCl₄, or "tickle") and about 25 pounds of chlorine gas occurred around 6 a.m., but the early warning system installed to warn the chemical plant's neighbors in a one-mile radius did not work.

After running several tests later Monday, plant officials found that the system worked without any problems, and determined that "in the hustle and bustle of the situation, the operator must not have followed the steps exactly," Ruff said.

"The person operating the system at the time can't pinpoint where he didn't do something. So, we're planning to have some more training on the system, to make sure this doesn't happen again."

The plant planned another full-scale warning system test for Wednesday. The tests normally are run once a month; one had been run June 5.

The early warning system consists of road signs with flashing lights for traffic on Kiln-DeLisle Road; a siren for people immediately outside the plant; and a radio system with monitors in all houses within a one-mile radius of DuPont. The system was developed following two 1990 chemical releases and the resulting meetings between plant officials and local residents.

Slidell youth critical after lightning strike

BY TRACI BONNEY

A 12-year-old girl from Slidell, La., who was struck by lightning Sunday in Waveland remained in critical condition Wednesday at North Shore Regional Medical Center, according to Waveland Police Investigator James Varnell.

Although Varnell honored the family's request to withhold the identities of those involved, their names were published in two area daily newspaper accounts.

According to reports, Vicky Shally was at the beach at Nicholson Avenue with her aunt and uncle, Linda and Richard James of Mandeville, La., and their two children, around 3:45 p.m. Sunday when lightning struck Shally and Mrs. James, who was holding her three-month-old child.

According to the police report, Mr. James was putting beach gear in the car and his wife was trying to get her five-year-old child out of the water when the lightning hit. Shally was standing near her aunt.

Varnell said a Slidell nurse saw the incident and began administering CPR to Shally, who was in full arrest (no pulse or breathing). Mrs. James reported that her legs were paralyzed following the strike. Mobile Medic transported

Mrs. James, her baby and Shally to Hancock Medical Center, where Mrs. James and her child were treated and released. Shally was transferred from HMC to North Shore in Slidell.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I had an opportunity to visit with many of my newspaper friends on Friday and Saturday in Natchez at the Mississippi Press Association's annual meeting.

It was the 125th anniversary of the association, one of the oldest associations in the state.

I really do not know how long The Sea Coast Echo has been a member of the Mississippi Press Association, but in doing research on the Archives, I found an article about the association in an April 11, 1896 issue about the annual convention.

The association has always met on the Mississippi Gulf Coast during my tenure at the Echo, but this year the convention was held at the Natchez Eola Hotel.

The hotel has been recently renovated and is one of the few in business today with elevator operators.

Natchez has a lot of history and has been luckier than we have in Hancock County in retaining old homes and businesses.

Hurricanes over the years have taken its toll on our landmarks.

I would like to compliment the entire staff of The Sea Coast Echo on the five awards received in the Better Newspaper Contest.

The Echo received two second place and three third place awards in the weekly division with circulations of over 4,500. Twice weekly papers compete with weekly papers.

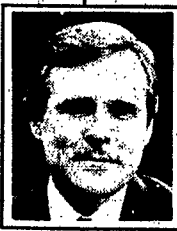

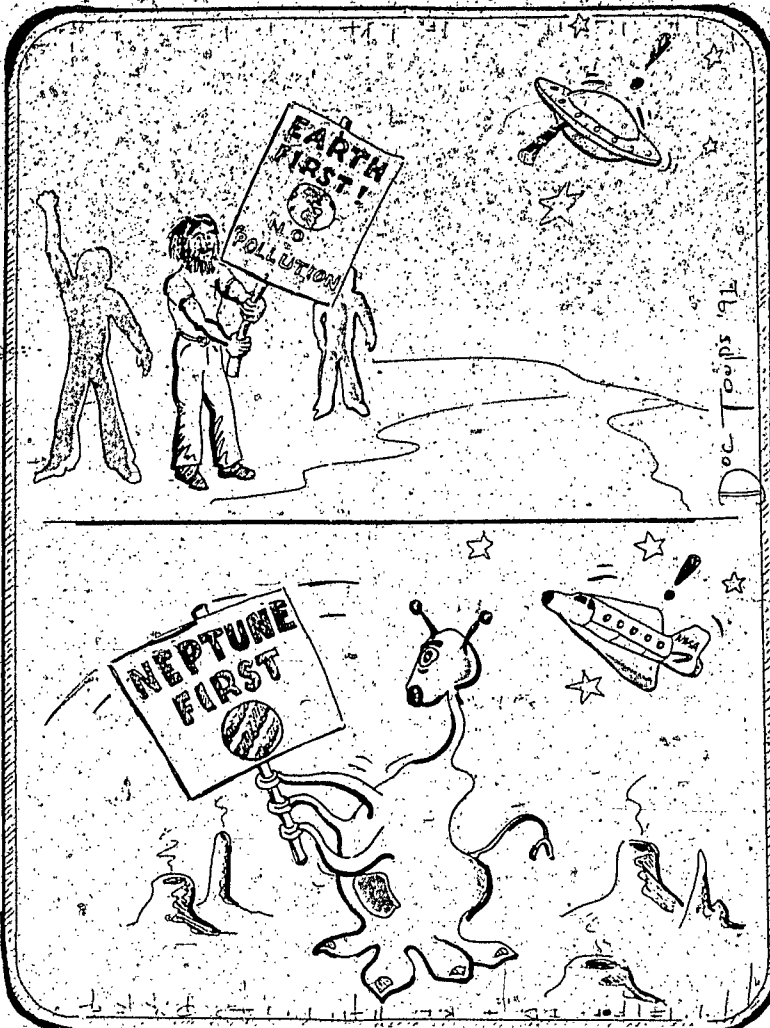

I guess I am like many folks who feel you have to take a vacation and travel to another state or country, but in reality, there are many things to do and sites to see in your own state.

Natchez is a prime example, as it has so many historic sites and things to see.

It has been some time since I visited Natchez, and I am hoping that I will be able to spend several days there in the future and get to see some of Mississippi's historical sites.

There are so many historic things in the State of Mississippi that a person could probably spend years traveling about the state and never visit everything.

You may want to think about that in your future vacation plans, too.

MHP increasing number of DUI arrests in state

As many Mississippians take to the roads during the summer vacation season, it's sad to think that some people never arrive at their destination.

The reason: They are the victims of drunk or drugged drivers. By abusing substances and driving, they turn their vehicles into lethal weapons.

A sad fact is that 58 percent of the motor vehicle crashes that have resulted in death in Mississippi in the past three months have been alcohol or drug related.

That figure is too high to be ignored.

But things are changing. DUI arrests are on the increase. Since 1988, the Mississippi Highway Patrol has nearly doubled the number of DUI arrests.

A lot of these DUI apprehensions are directly related to a program, stated in 1988, called Operation Saturation.

This special enforcement effort by MHP was begun to decrease the number of fatalities on our state's roads. As a matter of fact, shortly after the inauguration of Operation Saturation, the American Automobile Association designated the entire state as a "Strict Traffic Enforcement Area."

This was the first time a state had received such a designation in over 10 years. By continuing Operation Saturation we have seen incredible results. Here are the facts:

1987—5,742 DUI and 234 marijuana or other drug violation arrests.

1988—7,132 DUI and 917 marijuana or other drug violation arrests.

Cochran honored by U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Senator Thad Cochran was honored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce for voting consistently to support American business during 1990.

Cochran was presented the 'Spirit of Enterprise Award' for compiling a pro-business voting record of 70 percent or higher based upon key votes cast on business issues in the second session of the 101st Congress.

Key business issues addressed last year in Congress included a major overhaul of clean-air laws, increased visas for job-related immigration and a budget measure that imposed higher federal taxes.

Congress also debated proposals that would have forced employers to use quotas in hiring and promotion and to provide family and medical leave benefits.

Also on the agenda was establishment of a line-item veto, a reduced Social Security payroll tax rate and a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget.

Knights to help mentally retarded with fund raisers

Dear Editor,

Many of you are familiar with the Tootsie Roll Campaign of the Knights of Columbus which has been conducted in this area for many years. What you might not know is that these funds are used to match new federal grant dollars for the benefit of the mentally retarded.

In addition to the Tootsie Roll Campaign, I am informed that a new campaign will be conducted in our community which will involve the publishing of a brochure and spaghetti dinners and other promotions by the Knights of Columbus to raise dollars to help mentally retarded children.

These funds I am informed will be available also for federal matching grant dollars which will be a big help to this program.

I commend the Knights of Columbus for their extra efforts in helping the mentally retarded in Mississippi and hope that our citizens will respond generously to the drive.

Sincerely,
Michael D. Haas

BMR should protect larger fish, allow harvest of others

Dear Editor,

Recently the Bureau of Marine Resources announced that they intend to take away the five undersized speckled trout that we now are allowed to keep.

BMR states that 60.5 percent of the trout caught by recreational fishermen are undersized. Therefore, only 39.5 percent of the fish caught by recreational fishermen are in the reproductive size range. One reason sportsmen catch the smaller sized fish is that the fish are sifted through miles of gill nets which are designed to catch the larger reproductive size trout.

It seems to me that recreational fishermen are not the real culprits here. So how can the Bureau of Marine Resources blame recreational fishermen for depleting the trout and redfish populations when it is really the lack of proper management on their part by not protecting our fish during the spawning season and in making sportsmen waste fish that could be included in our limits?

I talk to fishermen all the time at my marina to see what kind of day they have had fishing, and only 30 percent of them will say that they had caught plenty of fish, but had to throw most of them back in order to catch legal size fish. They also say that it is a shame because some of the fish that had to be returned to the water already were dead and that half of the ones that were still alive would probably not survive because they were hurt while being hooked and handled. Consequently, 50 percent of all fish caught will end up to be dead fish; fish that could be eaten instead of wasted. So why have a size limit on fish? It is not saving fish, it is wasting fish!

Many times I and others have suggested to BMR not to have a size limit but to strictly enforce the amount limit. In that way, when a person caught the limit, he would stop and go home instead of staying in order to try and catch a legal sized fish or two and end up killing more fish than is necessary for the limit. In the long run, this would save more fish and the ones that do give their lives to fishermen could be eaten and enjoyed instead of being wasted as ordered by the Bureau of Marine Resources.

If BMR really has conservation of this resource in mind, they will change their master plan, because we can all see this is not working. Instead of BMR making the recreation fishermen waste fish, they should protect the fish during the spawning season by closing the season to everybody so the fish are able to reproduce themselves.

Now isn't that a simple solution? But, evidently, this is too simple for BMR. Or are they afraid this solution won't make them look like they're earning the money we pay them? They seem to think the more complicated they make everything, their jobs will seem more important and necessary.

I believe we need to protect the larger fish and harvest the smaller edible ones, and not waste anything that God has given us as the BMR has made us do in the past few years. Wasting fish that could be used is a sin against God and Mother Nature, in my opinion.

Ballet Magnificat

Renowned Christian dance company to perform Wednesday

BY JANET MCQUEEN
Local residents will have a rare opportunity Wednesday night to view the critically acclaimed Ballet Magnificat at the Bay High Auditorium.

Led by award-winning principal ballerina, Kathy Thibodeaux, Ballet Magnificat offers a blend of art and religion, with a program that is "artistically beautiful and spiritually uplifting," according to The Ballet Place artistic director Sharon Loiacano.

"It is unbelievable to have her (Thibodeaux) here," said Loiacano. "We are so fortunate to be able to stage this in our new auditorium, and show people from along the Coast what we have here in Bay St. Louis."

"Kathy is known all over the world; to have her here for a two-hour performance is so wonderful. Her dancers are from all over the United States and Canada," said Loiacano.

Loiacano anticipates a standing-room-only crowd at the auditorium, which seats 600. "We expect to pull from the dance community and the church community. Several youth groups will be attending."

The performance, which will be free to the public, is sponsored by contributions from local churches and individuals. "The community has been very supportive," she said.

Thibodeaux was formerly principal ballerina with Jackson Ballet, now Ballet Mississippi. In 1982 she won the Silver Medal in the II USA

International Ballet competition. Wednesday night, she will perform the winning solo to the Christian song "We Shall Behold Him."

In 1986 she formed Ballet Magnificat, which has performed more than 400 times in the United States and Canada.

Two ballet master classes are being offered Tuesday, June 25 by two of the professional dancers of the company at The Ballet Place studio, 211 Necaise Ave., Bay St. Louis.

A beginner pointe level will be taught from 3-4:15 p.m. and an advanced pointe level (three years of pointe required) from 4:30-6 p.m.

Classes are $8 and students must call ahead to pre-register. Call Loiacano at 467-4601 or 466-2645 for more information.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Okra is one of the favorite vegetables in the South, growing profusely all through the hot summer months. Native to South Africa, okra is widely cultivated in tropical and subtropical countries, where the fruit or pod is known under its Bantu name, "gumbo."

It's quite a versatile vegetable, quite tasty when steamed, fried, smothered, stewed or pickled and what have you. And what would our seafood gumbo be like without the thickening property and unique flavor of okra?

My grandmother used to say, "Eat more okra; it cools the blood and is good for you, and besides, it's so good!" So, in her household, as in so many others, it was okra-this-and-okra-that, fresh from the kitchen garden all summer long. And, she also followed the old Southern rite of steaming or boiling whole okra pods with butter beans or field peas, not only adding flavor to the other vegetables, but also retaining more of the vitamins and minerals.

Okra is tasty when barely simmer-steamed until tender, then cooled and served with oil and vinegar and pepper, with a dash of salt. It's also tasty when braised or sauteed in bacon drippings or a little olive oil, after you've washed the okra and sliced off the stems. Just cook it a few minutes, stirring often, sprinkle with black pepper, and add a half cup of chopped onions or green onions, cooking until the okra is tender.

And, for a soothing summer salad, here's:

OKRA, TOMATO, ONION SALAD

1/2 lb. fresh okra
2 white onions, thin-sliced
2 tomatoes, cut as you prefer
1 tsp. lemon juice
4 Tbsp. olive oil
1 Tbsp. plus a bit more of apple cider vinegar
1/2 tsp. Creole mustard
Dash of hot pepper sauce
Simmer the okra in a little water until tender, adding the lemon juice to the water to cut the "slipperiness" down. Drain okra, cut off the tough-stem ends, and place in a bowl. Add the sliced onions.

Make the vinaigrette dressing of the oil and vinegar, mustard and pepper sauce, and pour this over the okra and onions. Add the tomatoes, cut into slices or eighths or smaller, according to your preference.

I like to be far more generous with the oil than with the vinegar in my dressings; but a three-to-one ratio of oil to vinegar makes a good vinaigrette, unless you like yours quite vinegary-bitey!

weighed down by cars parked partially on the sidewalk so much that it caved in, Favre explained.

He showed the council a plan to move the sidewalk six feet closer to City Hall and pave the resulting space for parking, which would widen Second Street and allow smoother traffic flow.

He asked for no council action on the plan, but only presented it to the members.

Favre also recommended that the council designate the Bay Catholic Elementary School cafeteria, across the street from City Hall, as an alternate meeting site in case more space is needed for a meeting. He said the school and Our Lady of the Gulf agreed to the proposal.

The council passed the resolution designating the site.

The council also heard reports from the clerk of council, the municipal clerk and the mayor, opened and rejected fuel supply bids because they did not meet the city's specifications, and agreed to set their first July meeting for Monday, July 1, instead of the regular Tuesday date since the July 4 city holiday would be only two days later.

At the end of the meeting, the council adjourned to today, 6:30 p.m., to ratify the gaming/zoning study consultants' contract and address any other business that may come before the council.

Main Street Market opens Saturday

Downtown merchants and the Hancock County Historical Society will open the Main Street Market Saturday, 8 a.m., at 119 Main St.

Carole Ripley, owner of Olde Towne Restaurant, and her partner Diana DeFries are donating the use of the Olde Towne parking lot one Saturday each month for the open air flea market.

Ripley said, "We are very excited about Main Street-Bay St. Louis. After getting together, a group of businesses decided to do something that helps fund the program. A vital Bay St. Louis is good for all of us."

The Main Street-Bay St. Louis Program is a downtown revitalization effort, part of a nationwide push toward economic enhancement by preserving the best of the historic aspects of a town while encouraging creative and progressive marketing techniques to draw people to the town.

The Hancock County Historical Society will escrow booth rental funds until Main Street-Bay St. Louis receives its non-profit status and official incorporation.

Space is available, and vendors will be able to sell arts, crafts and conventional flea market items.

Mayor Edward Favre said, "The level of excitement about the goals of Main Street-Bay St. Louis is phenomenal. The Main Street Market is the first of many projects to establish our strong public/private partnership in the project."

For more information about the Main St. Market, call Olde Towne, 467-5687, after 9 a.m.

Board member Lennette Necaise asked that the board consider the hiring of a full-time attendance officer to supervise excessive absences.

Excessive absences reduce the school district's average daily attendance (ADA), which is used to evaluate the amount of local funds appropriated to the district.

Necaise stressed the need for student absences to be reduced for the benefit of the students as well as for the financial benefit to the district.

Randolph said he would look into the cost of the position and report back to the board.

In other business the board approved:

—curriculum committee recommendations for alternative classes for physical education and health;

—recommendation for continuing certification for provisional (first year or transfer) certified educators for the district;

—a request to accept the low quote of $1,055 from Marvin

Lacoste Repair Service for the installation of a freezer condensing unit at Gulfview Elementary School cafeteria;

—the 1991-92 salary scale for the certified personnel for the Hancock County School District;

—the resignations of bus driver Richard "Pat" Patterson, high school guidance secretary Kathy Davis, elementary school teacher's aid Eileen Eve, high school teacher David Stockstill and elementary teacher Betty Reddock;

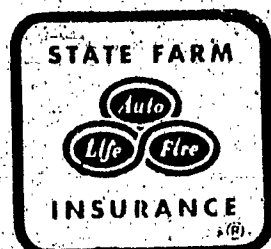

—to employ for the 1991-92 school year Lucy Mitchell as an elementary teacher at Charles B. Murphy, Bridget Hall as a library aide at Charles B. Murphy, Sandra Wicktom as a secretary for Hancock High School Student Services (Guidance) and Beth Randall as a secretary at Charles B. Murphy; and —a recommendation to transfer Andrea Gaudin from a secretarial position at Charles B. Murphy to a clerk/secretarial position in the Chapter I and Special Programs Office in the district.

Local poets' writings play Tag in the Light

BY TRACI BONNEY

A moment's glimmer of an idea has turned into Seasons of Light for poets Mary Ann Rich of Orange Grove and Ava Hines of Bay St. Louis.

Rich and Hines, two patrons of the Rainbow Theatre Coffeehouse, decided to publish a chapbook of women's poetry shortly after they met. Rich had been toying with the idea of a chapbook, a small book of poems, for a little more than a year when she met Hines.

Hines said there was an instant affinity between the two women when they met. Their friendship immediately took hold and grew.

Rich said the idea of a chapbook germinated when Gulfport native Michael Garriga, now a student in Florida, gave a reading at the coffeehouse from a book of poetry he had published.

The concept of the chapbook intrigued Rich, who was frustrated at the lack of area poetry publications.

"There's no local outlet for poets," Rich said, "so we decided to create our own."

She said Seasons of Light contains only women's poetry because of "intuition. I wanted the pieces to have continuity. The pieces stand alone but work together; there are no emotional clashes between poems."

The chapbook, published in the first week of June, bears out that observation and gives a clue as to why Hines and Rich became friends so quickly. The themes, moods and even styles of their poetry complement each other as though the women sat down together and planned what they would write.

But if you ask either of them, both will tell you that most of the poetry in Seasons of Light was written long before they even met.

Their themes play Tag across the pages, chasing each other through a maze of action, emotion and reflection. Even though the chapbook's title speaks of light, its contents seem to identify better with the cover photograph shot by Thomas H. "Doc" Toups, where more is in shadow than in light.

Both poets speak of hurt, passion, disappointment, betrayal and spirituality; both also paint word pictures of their lives' scenery.

Hines said of her work, "Usually a thought will come to me and just develop itself."

In Rich's poetry, the emotional and psychological themes alternate and sometimes mingle with a lyrical description of some vignette from the natural world that captures her fancy.

She said, "When the pieces are right, they're short, not too wordy; they focus on a particular feeling or vision, like a photograph does."

Both women have read their work at the coffeehouse; both agree that the experience has contributed to their growth as poets.

Typesetting for the chapbook was done by Stevan Burch, who approached Rich about the project. Roberta Toups posed for the cover photo.

Rich said she foresees a quarterly chapbook publication in the future.

The chapbook, along with other of Toups' photos, will be on display at the Gulfport-Harrison County Library beginning July 1.

Seasons of Light is available for purchase at the coffeehouse, Earthstones Jewelry, and Bookends Bookstore, where the two women will give a reading and autograph copies of the chapbook Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Bay-Waveland Yacht Club to host Sunfish Championship

The 1991 Sunfish North American Championship will be at Bay-Waveland Yacht Club from June 29 through July 5. Registration and boat measurement will be June 29-30.

Sunday's schedule includes a clinic from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., a practice race at 3 p.m., a welcoming barbecue after the race, and a skippers' meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Racing starts Monday with two events going simultaneously. There is a two-day junior championship and an elimination series for the adults to separate into the Championship and Founder's divisions.

The top five juniors, in addition to getting junior awards, will be placed into the Championship division for the rest of the week.

Other juniors will be placed into the Founder's division. These divisions will race Wednesday through Friday.

There will be two trophy banquets. One will be Tuesday night, followed by a junior party for the presentation of the trophies for the Junior North American Championship.

On Friday night, the club will hold the awards banquet for the racing Wednesday through Friday. This regatta will determine qualifiers for the Sunfish World's as well as crown the North American Champion.

There are 50 entries received so far from 15 different states and Bermuda. The most notable entry is probably Scott Kyle, who is the current Mid-winter North American and World Champion.

Aspiring Sunfish sailors should not be discouraged by the level of the competition, because Sunfish sailors are usually helpful and cooperative. There is no better way to improve one's sailing than to compete with the best.

For entry information, call Judy McKinney at 467-5044. Entry fees are $185, including the complete meal plan, and $130 for the opening and closing banquets only. There is a $20 deduction for juniors (not 17 this year) and a $5 deduction for USYRU members.

Memphis State hires Ladner as asst. basketball coach

Michael Ladner, varsity basketball coach at Bay High School, will join the staff at Memphis State under head women's coach Joye Lee-McNelis, former Hancock County standout.

Ladner, BHS head coach from 1986-91, was named District Eight varsity boys' basketball Coach of the Year in 1988-89. His girls team placed second in district the same year.

He played college basketball for two years at Phillips College in Gulfport from 1981-83, where he earned National Little College Athletic Association All-District honors. Both his 1981-82 and 1982-83 teams finished third in the NLCAA national tournament.

Ladner is a 1986 graduate of Southeastern Louisiana University with a degree in physical education.

"I am very excited about the opportunity to work with Michael," said McNelis. "His thorough knowledge and understanding of the game has brought him much success. I look forward to having his input in game strategy."

"I have known him for many years and his desire to excel has been a positive attribute to his coaching career," she said.

Church league seeks softball league sponsors

Several local churches are looking for sponsors for five of their softball league teams scheduled for play the beginning of July.

St. Rose de Lima, Powerhouse of Deliverance, First Missionary Baptist, Valena C. Jones, Little Zion Baptist, St. Rock United Methodist and Pearlington churches have joined to form six co-ed teams for 7 to 14 year-old players.

St. Rose Gospel Choir is sponsoring the St. Rose de Lima team and encourages others to help in the financing of the remaining teams.

To sponsor a team costs a total of $300. At present the children are being required to pay $20 each to participate in the league.

A pre-game tournament is scheduled for play July 6-7 at St. Rose Ball Field.

The following games will be played in the Waveland Ball Field on Central Ave., beginning at 4 p.m. on July 13, 20, 27, August 3, 10, and 17.

August 17 will be the final tournament for the Church Softball League.

For more information contact either Mr. or Mrs. Dailey at 467-1298.

Cabbage ball adult league now forming

Candy sale to benefit Waveland League

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Waveland Little League members will be going door to door these next weeks selling candy in order to raise monies for equipment.

Bernard Tusa said that since the theft of $1000 of equipment from the Waveland Little League storage room in April he has received several generous donations and the candy drive is an attempt by the teams to complete the monies needed to replace the equipment.

"Three days after the article ran (May 16 edition of the Sea Coast Echo) a private individual sent me $100," Tusa reported.

Since then, Tusa stated, "a half-dozen people have contributed $10 and $15."

"American Legion Post 77 in Waveland gave us $200 and the women's auxiliary from American Legion Post 77 gave us $250."

Tusa received a check for $250 this week from the contractors who are building the Calgon plant at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

Calgon plant at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

Charley Fulton of National Industrial Constructors, Inc. explained, "many of our employees are residents of this area."

"Although our company is a part of this community for only a short period of time, we want the people in this area to know that we appreciate the hospitality we have received."

Tusa said he is most appreciative for every single contribution to help the kids.

Water safety

Fifth and sixth graders from St. Paul Catholic School enjoyed swimming and swimming safety courses at the Long Beach YMCA recently.

Under the direction of Debbie Danielson, YMCA swimming instructor, who was assisted by St. Paul physical education teacher Linda Emmel, the sixth grade class commuted to Long Beach to be instructed in improved swimming techniques and endurance swimming.

May 6 through 11, the fifth grade class attended an Adopt-a-School Program, which is sponsored by the Long Beach YMCA.

They learned such skills as treading water, flotation methods, basic rescue, boating safety and some swimming

"This community service from the YMCA has greatly enriched the curriculum at St. Paul and has prepared the students for a much safer summer in the water," said Emmel.

Committee votes to repeal recreational boat tax

U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor announced the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, of which he is a member, voted Wednesday to repeal the controversial tax on recreational boat owners.

"I promised the people of South Mississippi that I would do everything possible to see that this unfair tax on recreational boat owners would be repealed. The action taken by our committee is the first step in eliminating this tax," he said.

Taylor said he and other members of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee had been steadfast against the boat user tax that was first proposed in 1981.

Taylor and other members of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee felt that instead of taxing recreational boaters, fees should have been levied against foreign vessels entering U.S. ports.

"We certainly must do everything in our power to reduce the national deficit," said Taylor, "but our committee wanted to put stiffer tonnage duties on foreign vessels rather than taxing weekend recreational boaters."

Taylor said the boat user tax only represented 3.5 percent of the entire budget for the U.S. Coast Guard and gave no additional benefits to the users who will pay the tax.

The Coast Guard is now in the process of establishing rules and procedures for the assessment and collection of the tax. Unless the tax is repealed, the Coast Guard will start collecting the tax after the final rule is published in the Federal Register. At this time, no firm date of publication has been given.

'Outdoors' offers sportfishing, Civil War reenactment

Viewers learn about cobia, the "Cadillac" of sportfish, and relive a Civil War battle near Holly Springs on the next edition of "Mississippi Outdoors," at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, June 20, on Mississippi ETV.

The program will repeat at 6:16 a.m., Friday, July 21, and again at 5:30 p.m., Saturday, July 22.

Tom Van Devender of Ocean Springs, chief of saltwater fisheries with the Bureau of Marine Resources, and Jim Franks of Ocean Springs, a fisheries biologist with the Gulf Coast Research Lab, take viewers to a deep sea fishing tournament on the Coast for a look at a favorite target of sport-fishermen, the cobia.

Wall Doney State Park is the site of an annual Civil War battle reenactment.

Lyle Richardson of Holly Springs, manager of Wall Doney State Park, talks about the history of the reenactment and why the park is an ideal location for the event.

Jerry Lessenbury of Humboldt, Tenn., a Confederate re-enactor and commander of Huggins Battery, discusses the history of the reenactment at Wall Doney and why the participants come back year after year.

Mike Modglin of Bartlett, Tenn., who is featured in a dual role as a Federal soldier and as the captain of the 7th Tennessee Volunteer Cavalry Regiment, Company C, explains to host Melvin Tingle how the Federals, even though grossly outnumbered, will win the battle.

Jim Ridout of Raymond Joins Tingle in the studio for a demonstration of muzzleloaders.

Outdoor artist Glenn Warren of Jackson is featured, and this week's "Cooper's Corner" looks at frogs.

More than 400 high school girls gathered on the University of Southern Mississippi campus last week to form the fictitious state of "Magnolia."

The delegates—girls about to enter their senior year in high school—were nominated by American Legion auxiliaries throughout the state to participate in the 44th annual Mississippi Girls' State Convention, hosted by USM for the fifth straight year.

Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post 77 Auxiliary sent 11 girls to the event this year. According to Girls' State chairman Dorothy Bielstein, the number is the largest to be sponsored by Waveland. The cost per girl is $125.

The auxiliaries are able to pay the expenses through a series of fund-raising endeavors throughout the year. Girls selected by Post 77 Auxiliary included Hancock High School juniors DeAnna Necaise, Vicky Israel, Christy Crosby, Jennifer Necaise, Jessica Ladner, Vicky Anderson, Robin Bennett and Cassie Smith; and Our Lady Academy students Shelly Cuevas, Christina Marsh and Brittany Ellis.

Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139, Bay St. Louis, sponsored five delegates, including Our Lady Academy students Jeanne Williams, Alyson Cousins, Bridgette Dugas and Konnie Merrigan; and Bay High School student Susie Moran.

The program's primary goal is to teach the delegates more about politics as they make nominations, hold campaign rallies, organize political platforms and elect state and local officials.

Formerly held at Hinds Community College in Raymond, the program was moved to USM in 1987 because of a need for expanded facilities to handle an increasing number of participants.

The delegates held mock elections for state and local offices such as governor, secretary of state, auditor, attorney general, senators and representatives for the five districts, 10 cities and five counties of "Magnolia."

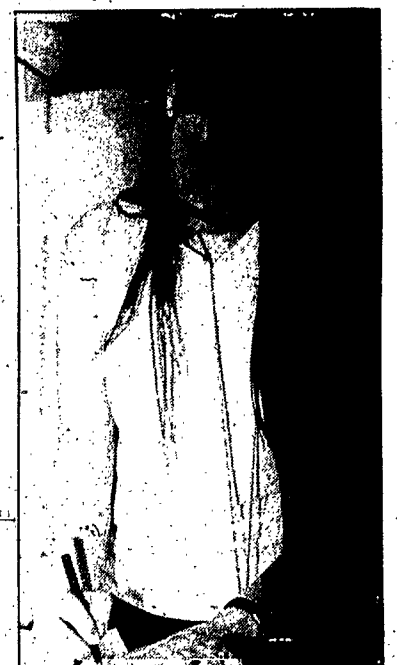

Two girls selected as Girls' Nation senators will travel to Washington, D.C.'s Marymount College in July for the national program and a first-time award of $500 will be presented to the "Outstanding Girls' State Citizen."

Highlights of the week-long session at USM included addresses by state and local officials—including U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor, D-Miss., Hattiesburg Mayor Ed Morgan, state auditor and gubernatorial candidate Pete Johnson, former congressman and gubernatorial candidate Wayne Dowdy and Pete Collins of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol.

Other activities included a presentation by 1990 Girls' State Gov. Laura Roy of Tupelo; "Project Aware," which features state prison inmates who relate individual stories of how they became involved in crime; a talent show; a glee club event; publication of the "Alagista," the official Girls' State newspaper; and trips to Hattiesburg City Hall and governmental offices in Jackson.

The convention is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, with assistance from the USM College of International and Continuing Education.

Hancock High announces Star Student, Star Teacher

The Mississippi Economic Council has announced that William Foxworth has been selected Star Student at Hancock High School.

Star students are selected on the basis of academic excellence. American College Test scores and scholastic averages are considered in the selection of the school's Star student.

The Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition (STAR) Program encourages and promotes academic achievement among Mississippi's high school seniors, explained William B. Alexander, chairman of MEC's Council on Education.

"Top scholars are being designated as Star Students in over 300 participating schools in Mississippi. From these Star Students, the top 20 in the state are selected, and the Council awards scholarships to all 20 Star Students and their Star Teachers." Funds for the scholarships are provided by the Phil Hardin Foundation of Meridian.

Each Star Student is asked to designate a Star Teacher, a teacher who has made the greatest contribution to the student's scholastic achievement. Mrs. Suzette Lewis Burton was designated Star Teacher.

Both student and teacher will receive certificates from the council, in addition to being eligible for competition for scholarship awards.

Foxworth is the son of James and Geraldine Foxworth. His honors and activities include Beta Club, Student Council, Quiz Bowl, SADD, School Television Network, Future Educators of America, Governor's School, Math and Science Tournament, Bausch and Lomb Science awards and WYES Scholar's Bowl Team and Business Week leader. Foxworth plans to attend Tulane University in the fall and major in mathematics.

Burton has 20 years teaching experience. She has an AAA certification in biology, chemistry and general science. She was a member of the Governor's Science Textbook Selection Committee in 1982, is a member of the statewide Biology Testing Review Committee for 1988-91, received the Tandy Technology Scholars Outstanding Teacher Award for 1989-90, and was named Star Teacher in 1984-85.
